Just a couple notes from me, Jackie:

Many of the classes I personally offer are meant to provide a progression in the inter-related book arts opportunities. It is not necessary to take them in any specific order, but understand they are complimentary in nature. Think of them as part of, or a means to an end, not the end in themselves. (not that many cannot stand alone and be appreciated as completed work) It is also for this reason I repeat some foundational workshops more often. Understanding the method to my madness may be helpful when making workshop choices.

I invite you to take a little time to peruse the website, especially the New Program Options page and sub categories. I am opening up the calendar for you to do the schedule. Pick a program that you are interested in, give me a couple dates that work for you and let's make a play date. You alone or you and friends/family/co-workers/etc. As long as I don't have something else scheduled, we can make it work. Required time commitment are listed per program along with material fees. Many if not most programs supplies will be included. (some additional supplies are based on personal preferences) Hourly per person rates will vary by complexity and numbers of attendees. Let me hear from you, whisper@tds.net.

Offsite Programs may be arranged dependent on scheduling, numbers, location, equipment, & supplies.

Be sure to watch for the newest additions.
We strive for quality programs for your learning enjoyment.
